Date: 25/04/2014

Dear Sir/Madam,

Greetings from Anand Agricultural University

Sub: Nominations for Short Duration Course on “Strategic Issues in Agricultural Trade under WTO Regime” during 2nd to 11th June 2014

Agriculture has been the backbone of Indian economy since time immemorial. Major transformation in this sector took place only after green revolution in the 1960s which made the country self-sufficient in food grain production. However, to reap the benefits of trade, locally as also globally, the country embark upon the new economic environment characterized by liberalization, privatization and globalization, through new economic policy commenced in 1991 and acceptance of WTO agreement in 1995. Since the advent of WTO, sound understanding of issues pertaining to agriculture in world trade has become vital particularly for developing countries.

Against this backdrop and for strengthening the existing knowledge of agribusiness, it feels me immense pleasure to inform you that International Agribusiness Management Institute, Anand Agricultural University, Anand is going to organize 10 days short duration course on “Strategic Issues in Agricultural Trade under WTO Regime” during 2nd to 11th June 2014. The basic objective to organize the short duration course under reference is to refresh and upgrade the existing knowledge of agricultural trade under changing economic regime globally through class room sessions, case discussions, presentations, assignments, farm visits and industrial and institutional visits. To make the programme best of its kind, academicians from our university and other premier institutions in the region as well as industry experts from various pertinent fields will be invited to share their knowledge on the given topics.

I shall be grateful, if you could kindly sponsor one or two deserving teachers and researchers of relevant field.
