Cleanliness Campaign at Veterinary College, AAU, Anand

As a part of celebration of swachhta pakhwada for clean India mission, the NSS Volunteers of College of Veterinary Science & A.H., Anand Agricultural University, Anand joined in Cleanliness Campaign. This cleanliness drive was celebrated under the guidance of Dr. A.M. Thaker, Dean/Principal, Veterinary College, Anand. All the NSS Volunteers took the pledge for cleanliness along with Dr. K. A. Sadariya, NSS Programme Officer. During this Swachhta Pakhwada various cleanliness related activities were performed by NSS Volunteers during 1-15th August, 2018. The NSS Volunteers/ students collected plastics, garbage and unwanted rubbish from roads and streets, inside and outside of college premises and nearby places in the Veterinary College. The NSS volunteers also cleaned various laboratories, class rooms, street and roads nearby surgery and pharmacology department, ASCAD hostel area and surrounding areas of this building. At last, Dr. K.A. Sadariya thanked all the NSS volunteers for active and enthusiastic participation in this Cleanliness Campaign and also suggested to all the students to start cleaning their hostel rooms and working area routinely and do not throw any kind of rubbish in college premises.

"One step towards cleanliness"