

Training programme on “Food Processing Technology” jointly organized by College of FPTBE, AAU, Anand and ATMA Project, Vadodara for women farmers of Savli Taluka of Vadodara district

College of Food Processing Technology and Bio Energy, Anand Agricultural University, Anand and ATMA Project, Vadodara have jointly organized a three days training programme on "Food Processing Technology" from 25-09-2019 to 27-09-2019. In this training programme, 50 women farmers from Savli taluka of Vadodara district have been participated.

In the beginning, Dr.S.S.Kapdi, Professor & Training Incharge has welcomed all women trainees & gave guidance about importance of food processing sector. After that, the subject experts delivered power point presentations/lectures on various topics such as use of non-conventional energy in food processing, detection of deficiency in food substances, importance of quality, use & reuse of water in food processing, various aspects of establishing industry in food processing sector. Various demonstrations like tomato processing, various food processing machineries, preparation of paneer from milk, canning and snacks lines working under Incubation Centre, household use of solar cooker, preparation of syrup from fruit, food processing machineries and hands on experience for bakery product have been also demonstrated. On last day, trainees have been visited Gruh Udyog manufacturing unit of papad, chorafali, etc. & AMUL (dairy & chocolate plant).

This entire training programme was successfully organized by Dr.S.S.Kapdi (Training Incharge) and Er.J.P.Rathod under the guidance of Dr.R.F.Sutar, Officer on Special Duty, College of FPTBE, AAU, Anand.

Lectures/demonstrations taken by experts to the women farmers of Savli taluka of Vadodara district

