Tree plantation programme “Save trees, save life on the earth”

Tree plantation Programme was conducted by NSS volunteers of College of Horticulture, AAU, Anand on 20th, July 2019 at Mahatma Gandhi Boys hostel and Girls hostel with surrounding area of hostels. The programme was graced and guided by Dr. H. C. Patel, Principal and Dean, College of Horticulture. The Message of the Principal was announce by Programme Officer Dr. Chintan Raval, that the participation and continue involvement from plantation to caring and growing of individual plants is very essential. At the beginning of the programme Dr. H. C. Patel, Principal and Dean, gave information about trees, their benefits and how to maintain tress round the year. He further explained that oxygen is the basic need of life which we can only get from the plants, so we should take a pledge to plant more trees as well as increase social awareness about ‘save trees’ among common public. The NSS volunteers of the college were actively engaged in tree plantation programme. Other faculties of the college, hostel rectors and wardens also remain present in this programme and motivated the students to make green campus.
